CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS NOW UNDER PREPARATION

All Peace Negotiations Between Newton and Mrs Chadwick Are Off--The Banker Leaves Boston for New York Federal Government Officers Interested--The Court Hearing at Cleveland Allowed To Go Over.

New York Dec 1—Mrs Chadwick arm in arm with her son left the Holland house at 11 o'clock Mrs Chadwick stopped a public hansom at the corner of Twenty fifth street and she and her son entered and were driven hastily away downtown

She refused to talk to reporters or to say where she was going

She Will Talk

New York Dec 1—Edmund Powers confidential attorney for Mrs Chadwick after a conference with his client this morning said that a general conference of all parties concerned in the New on matter would be held this afternoon when the final details of the settlement would be arranged

Will Mrs Chadwick make public a statement concerning herself?

Yes she will replied Powers I have advised her to do so and I can say she is eager to tell I have told Mrs Chadwick however to withhold her statement until all the details of the present settlement are completed

Will the statement give any information of her past life?

It certainly will

What is the amount of her legal obligations? was asked

I should say about $700 000 said Powers but she will be able to meet them and live in princely style afterward

How much money is Mrs Chadwick worth above all legal claims against her?

I do not care to say that but it is at least $1 000 000 said Mr Powers

Is it true that Mrs Chadwick settled upon her husband $2 500 000 three years ago?

Yes she gave her husband that sum in cash

Where is Dr Chadwick now?

Mrs Chadwick never told me but I understand he is in Paris said Powers

Why did she negotiate all these large loans and what has become of all the money?

I do not see that that is any of the public's business answered Powers But if Mrs Chadwick desires to tell she may do so

Good News at Oberlin

Oberlin O Dec 1— I have had good news this morning the most encouraging since the bank closed said President Beckwith of the Citizens National bank today

It came to me over the telephone from Pittsburg and I feel so much better I tell you it has brightened me up wonderfully

He looked better than he has for a week

The money will be paid every dollar of it But it means my ruination just the same I have lost something that I can never regain no matter if every depositor gets his money back

I want to say that I never shouldered the $80 000 Oberlin college loan That was taken up through me but Mrs Chadwick furnished the cash to do it with This settlement will cost her $40 000 more than it would had not the Newton suit been started But the cash is coming I do not know how soon but it is coming

Another government examiner is on the way here to assist in the bank investigation

A New Story

Cleveland Dec 1—The Cleveland Leader this morning says

The most startling news that has yet developed in the great Chadwick mystery was received exclusively by the Cleveland Press in a despatch from the Leader this morning

The despatch says

Lawyer Newton of Boston and his associates Carver left Boston for New York at 3 a m

They were not called by the Chadwick interests

The federal government officials are interested in the summons to Newton and Carver

It is said that Mrs Chadwick is liable to be arrested at any moment and that warrants have been prepared for prominent Cleveland men alleged to be accomplices in huge swindles

All peace negotiations between Newton and Mrs Chadwick are off

The court hearing in Cleveland will be allowed to go over a time as criminal proceedings are under preparation and Newton's lawyers are letting the alleged Cleveland accomplices swelter

The statements given out in New York Wednesday that a settlement was in sight were purely for effect

Newton's lawyers know that all the swindles have been perpetrated and that Cleveland conspirators have it was met at midnight with the utmost secrecy

The signature on the note shown by Mrs Chadwick to Newton was A Carnegie not Andrew Carnegie

There is just one thing that can save Mrs Cassie L Chadwick from the exposure that now seems certain to follow her extraordinary career of swindling

This one thing is the interposition of

THE JAPS TAKE 203-METER HILL

Position Seized After a Bloody Assault.

THE CHARGE COMMENCES AT DAWN, NOVEMBER 30

First Attempt Fails Owing to Russians' Stubborn Resistance.

THE LOSSES ON BOTH SIDES ARE ENORMOUS

Five Thousand Japs Sacrificed in Two Hours According to a Russian Consul's Despatch the Russians Have Heaps of Dead Bodies on the Eastern Side of the Hill Japs Falling Back From Sintsintin

[BULLETIN]

ST PETERSBURG DEC 1 1901—IN OFFICIAL CIRCLES IT IS ADMITTED THAT IF THE REPORTS ARE CORRECT OF THE CAPTURE OF 0 METER HILL THE BLOW IS IRREPARABLE TO THE DEFENDERS OF PORT ARTHUR THE WAR OFFICE OFFICIALS REDUCTANTLY AGREE THAT THE BREACH IN THE CHAIN RENDERS THE POSITION EXTREMELY CRITICAL AND THOUGH THE GARRISON MIGHT BE ABLE TO HOLD OUT IN THE GOLDEN HILL FORTS FOR SOME TIME IT MAY MARK THE BEGINNING OF THE END

THE WAR OFFICE IS CONVINCED THAT WITH THE APPROACH OF THE RUSSIAN SECOND PACIFIC SQUADRON THE JAPANESE CONSIDERED THAT THE ELIMINATION OF THE PORT ARTHUR SQUADRON AS A FIGHTING FACTOR WAS ABSOLUTELY VITAL THUS ACCOUNTING FOR THE RECKLESS SACRIFICE OF LIFE IN ORDER TO SECURE A POSITION DIRECTLY COMMANDING THE HARBOR

Looking to the End

London Dec 1—The Japanese have Port Arthur all but in their grasp The capture of 03 Meter Hill news of which was continued in an official dispatch from Tokyo this morning is the most decided step toward the final occupation of the Russian stronghold the outer line of fortresses were assaulted and taken

The eminence which is to the west of Port Arthur itself is the highest point in that direction and from its summit the Japanese can sweep every inch of the harbor as well as every position outside of Liao Tishan and Tiger Tail to which the Russians can take As a result it is generally believed in expert and official circles news will shortly be received of the final demolition of the remaining Russian vessels in the harbor by the heavy calibre guns which the Mikado's troops have mounted on the hill

But one thing it seems can now save General Stoessel and his brave band of defenders from compulsory and immediate surrender to General Nogi This is a withdrawal of the Russians to Liao Tishan and Tiger Tail where if they have sufficient provisions they could hold out for some time The Japanese however are reported to have worked a portion of their force around to the territory between these forts and the present position of General Stoessel and there is a strong possibility that the Russian retreat in this direction is or will shortly be cut off This would mean the final doom of the besieged

The fighting at 203 Meter Hill has been terrific and the eminence was taken at an appalling cost to both the Japanese and Russians The bombardment has been in progress since November 21 An assault was made on that day but repulsed The next day November 0 a more determined and combined attack was met with an equally stubborn resistance and again General Nogi's men were hurled back Late in the evening the Japanese forces which had been added to from other divisions charged up the hill and after hand to hand conflicts with the defenders which lasted for over an hour the Russians were swept from the position

The official report in the taking of 0 Meter Hill follows

Our army began the bombardment of 203 Meter Hill at dawn yesterday We made several charges before 4 p m all of which failed owing to the enemy's stubborn resistance At 5 p m we advanced against the southeastern part of the hill and after a fierce fight got within thirty yards of the summit At 7 p m after we had been reinforced the charge was renewed We successfully reached the top Our forces operating against the northeastern fort were similarly successful until 8 p m the entire fortifications on the top of the hill fell into our hands

The Russians left heaps of dead on the eastern side of the hill but we had no time to investigate them 203 Meter Hill commands Port Arthur harbor

At Awful Cost

Tokio Dec 1—The Japanese army headquarters announces that the Japanese troops besieging Port Arthur are in possession of 20 meter hill The following dispatch has been given out

The army commenced a bombardment against 203 meter hill at dawn Nov 0 and made several charges before 4 o'clock in the afternoon Owing to the enemy's stubborn resistance the charges failed At 5 o'clock in the afternoon our force advanced again the southeastern portion of the hill made a fierce charge and reached within 20 meters of the summit At 7 o'clock with reinforcements we charged to the top which was occupied by our forces Against the northeastern part of the hill we also charged and at 8 o'clock the entire fort on the summit fell into our hands The Russians left heaps of dead bodies on the eastern side of the hill but we have had no time to investigate further

Retreating

St Petersburg Dec 1—Official and private despatches received here indicate that the Japanese are falling back from Sintsintin where for several days they had apparently been attempting a turning movement After four days of decidedly severe but unsuccessful fighting they are now retiring with the Russians in pursuit It is impossible as yet to tell whether either movement has real strategic significance

The Russian consul at Chefoo telegraphs that the Japanese captain of the steamer Hitachi Maru on Nov 9 built a wireless station from the other quarter The consul says the Japanese losses were enormous and that 000 men were sacrificed in two hours

The city added to grant $50 000 to the defenders of Port Arthur and their families and appeal to the Russian empire to raise a fund for the same purpose It is reported that Russia is still calling attention of the foreign powers to the refusal of the Japanese to allow vessels with medicine and comfort for the sick and wounded to enter Port Arthur

WHITE HOUSE IS BESIEGED

Since It Is Known President Favors Tariff Revision.

"STAND-PATTERS" ARE PLAINLY APPREHENSIVE

Roosevelt Neither Quails Under Fire Nor Takes to Cover.

WILL NOT SAY YES OR NO AS TO THE EXTRA SESSION

Every Effort Is Being Made To Induce Him To "Let Well Enough Alone," Until After the Fourth of March Chief Executive Is Now Feeling the Pulse of the Leaders--No Radical Step Anticipated.

Washington Dec 1—Since it became generally known that the president was in favor of a revision of the tariff the White House has been fairly besieged by representative stand patters

Although he has not quailed under their fire not even taken to cover there are indications that he is willing to reconsider his views relative to an extra session of congress next spring if it can be shown clearly that the interests of the part demand a postponement of what he sincerely believes to be inevitable

At present they are bending every effort to prevent serious public discussion of the subject during the coming session They are anxious to stave off the suggested special message from the White House on the subject The president has so far acceded to their wishes as to omit any discussion of the general tariff in his forthcoming message

Whether or not they will be able to induce him to let well enough alone until the 4th of March is a question No less than two weeks ago the president declared to one of his callers that he would call an extra session in the spring unless something then unforseen could cause him to change his mind

The president is now feeling the pulse of the leaders and it is believed that he has come to see that an extra session in the spring would be obnoxious to the majority of the leaders He has not yet said that he would not call such a session but as matters are now shaping themselves an extra session seems more remote than it did two weeks ago

Should the president refuse from his position it would be only for what he would believe to be the good of the party Personally he is as ardent a revisionist as those who have been trying to influence him are stand patters

Speaker Cannon recently spent an evening with the president going over the subject He advised against an extra session for tariff revision purposes His argument is that in the recent campaign the slogan was stand pat and that it was because of this that the people rolled up such a tremendous majority for Roosevelt and Fairbanks Uncle Joe feels that there would be little excuse for tariff revision at this time in the face of their verdict He left the president unconvinced but still open to argument

ELECTRIC ENGINE TESTS

Motor For New York Central Service Beats Steam Machines

RIVALS EASILY OUTDISTANCED

Six Hundred Ton Train Drawn at Rate of Fifty-five Miles an Hour Lighter Train Is Faster Yet—The Locomotive Runs as Easily as It Starts on Its Course

One of the most important events that have taken place in railroad and electrical circles in years occurred the other day when the official trial of the electric locomotive which has been built for the New York Central railroads service into New York city was held near Schenectady N Y says the New York Herald

The tests were most successful in every way and it is declared that the [illegible] demonstrated that the electric locomotive is the coming power for railroad traffic A series of races were run during the day and in every case the electrical engine proved more than the equal of the steam engines picking up speed in a manner little short of wonderful and easily outdistancing its rivals

Guests of the New York Central company were brought from New York to Schenectady on a special train of Pullman cars which were drawn to the stretch of equipped track near Hoffmans Ferry and attached to the electric locomotive

The most exciting part of the programme was a race between the electric locomotive and three steam engines and the ease with which the new engine beat the others was the greatest surprise of the day The electric locomotive with the train of cars attached and two steam engines with no weight to draw were run to the head of the course near Hudsons Crossing and laid over there to wait for the New Yorker one of the fast trains of the Central railroad The two steam engines were allowed some distance in which to get under headway and the electric locomotive started from a dead stop in the New Yorker swung by

The engines began the spurt neck and neck Owing to the fact that the others had a flying start the electric locomotive was greatly handicapped but it picked up speed with wonderful quickness and before a mile of track had been traversed it was running more than sixty miles an hour and was on even terms with the other trains So fast did it gain from this point that it was necessary to slow up in order to let the others catch it and make the race more exciting It then dashed ahead at a speed of nearly seventy miles an hour and easily showed its superiority to the steam engines

The air was filled with smoke from the locomotives as the engine drivers put on full steam in an effort to beat their formidable rival and as they dashed around the curve at the substation they were almost hidden from view

Another pretty race was between the electric locomotive and the New York Central engine Mohawk It was the closest of the day Nine heavy cars were attached to the electric locomotive while the Mohawk was run alone For the first two miles neither could win but as the racers neared the substation the electric locomotive slowly pulled ahead and gained so rapidly that despite the heavy train behind it the steam engine gave up the race after another mile had been run

According to the figures taken on the run a rate of more than fifty five miles was reached while the electric locomotive was attached to a 600 ton train and when drawing 500 and 400 ton trains the speed attained was nearly seventy miles an hour With the short stretch of track at the service of the company for the tests this is considered more than satisfactory

Another official test was held in the afternoon under the direction of the General Electric company officials who had as their guests prominent electrical men from all parts of the country High speed was again reached and every test was successful

Directly technicalities the new electric locomotive is a double headed machine standing 14 feet 4 inches high at the central portion weighing 0 tons gross and 69 tons as the superstructure rests on the drivers says the New York Times Its total length is 77 feet with a total wheel base of 7 feet There are eight driving wheels and two pony trucks one at either end of the [illegible] base continuous the drivers this making it a twelve wheel locomotive The drivers are but 44 inches in diameter about half the size of the drivers of the ordinary steam locomotive It has a normal horsepower of 2 200, with a maximum of 3 000 and a guaranteed speed when drawing a 500 ton train of sixty miles an hour

For perfect ease of starting and stopping the trains drawn by this giant motor was satisfactorily shown There were none of the inevitable jerks that accompanies the starting of a train drawn by a steam driven locomotive The motion at starting was as if a powerful suction was drawing the train into space a smooth gliding motion with scarcely a perceptible jar Stoppages immediately after attaining the highest rate of speed were made with equal ease

Power for the operation of the locomotive is had from a substation built alongside the experimental track which is a duplicate of the stations to be used in New York when the new system is installed The locomotive is fitted with shoes to take power from a third rail and also with overhead contact appliances so that power may be taken from an overhead rail

hington Nov 30 — A vigorous l alarm is sounded by Brigadier l J P Story in his annual re s chief of artillery of the United army in regard to the unpreparedness of the country for war especially oth as coast defense are con

In summing up an exhaustive of the situation he says

have not one half of the trained nel to man the armament al mounted At no post have we plete installation of the approved n finding equipment and ness which is absolutely required to the most effective work for the We are far from having a sufficient marine mining equipment for home or insular harbor defenses particularly we have no instructed nel for its care and operation

The field artillery is the arm of the service of national safety It est cost the entire torpedo defense of our harbors should at once be complete The cost of such defenses is estimated at $5 942 000 a little more than one half the cost of a single equipped battleship It would be a fatal neglect if I did not urge as strongly as I can the immediate completion of the torpedo defense of all fortified ports Today this defense is lamentably deficient both in matériel and personnel We can not afford to be caught unprepared for war We must be prepared in anticipation of war

Pending the installation of proper fixed fire control devices General Story points out the inability of the Russian artillery at Port Arthur to hit the Japanese battleships except at close range entirely due to the lack of such devices and quotes a report of the Russian general of artillery Matushevitch in support of his views touching this matter

It is with sincere regret to have to say that even at this day most of our finished harbor defenses are entirely lacking in the proper submarine mining equipment that appears to have contributed so greatly to the defense of Port Arthur

In closing General Story says "This record how by a very conservative statement points to the dangerous deficiency of our military defenses for congress in its wisdom to apply by appropriate legislation the remedies

Mr. Roosevelt To Go South.

There must be some reason for the persistent rumor that Mr Roosevelt intends to make a visit or a series of visits to the South after his inauguration next March Possibly he may have it in mind to go earlier but of course there will be no time for an excursion of enough importance between this and the assembling of congress and we hardly think the president has anything less in contemplation If he goes South at all it will not be for the mere purpose of spending three or four days in the cars and viewing the country from the window Unless he wants to see something of the people and this at his leisure we can imagine no reason for his crossing the Potomac

No doubt a properly arranged and executed tour would be of great service to him and to the section We have little faith we must confess in the conventional expedition Presidents learn almost nothing from reception committees and formal functions from cut and dried ceremonies and educated banquets We understand of course that these regulated ostentations could not very well be dispensed with altogether The chief magistrate of the United States must submit to them when he goes abroad Absolute freedom he goes abroad Etiquet must be appeased at all hazards or surely the heavens would fall Yet if Mr Roosevelt has in view anything more than empty and unmeaning parade solemn forms and fruitless demonstration there are intervals in the inevitable program which he could utilize for purposes of genuine contact and illuminating association He will have his hours of liberty—hours in which he may divest himself of tiresome restraint and which he can improve to very useful ends We can well believe that he desires this Official hospitality is not especially significant The plaudits of the holiday multitude are cheap If Mr Roosevelt contemplates nothing beyond these he will waste his time in southern travel We can tell him in advance exactly whom he will meet exactly what they will say to him and practically what the whole experience will come to We can approach very near indeed to predicting the menus of the breakfasts luncheons and dinners and to giving a diagram of the more sights seeing rapid journeys and the condition of the roads and streams over which the pageants will pass It is all futility and vexation signifying nothing

Nevertheless the president ought to know the South much better than he does and he men who represent the South's character and genius should know him as he really is There is much in him to appeal to the chivalric nature There is much in the typical southerner to appeal to Mr Roosevelt's impetuous and impulsive temperament He makes no secret of his sorrow his surprise over what he regards as the South's misunderstanding of his motives The southerner are equally mystified touching the springs of his acts and utterances It would operate a national blessing to dissipate these misgivings and misconceptions and the consummation is not impossible it is not even seriously difficult —Washington Post

Different in Ireland

When the Earl of Clonmel was visiting in this country a year or so ago he was introduced to a party at Delmonico's of which ex Sheriff Tom Dunn of New York was a member One night Dunn asked the question usually put to a tourist

How do you like the country my lord?

I am astonished with its vastness replied Clonmel also according to the end It is the greatest country on earth is you Americans assert and yet it is also small Everybody worth knowing seems to get into New York I find everybody here that I wish to see no matter where they live That is one of the remarkable things the size of the country and yet the ease with which people can get together It is quite remarkable in that respect asserted Mr Dunn I quite agree with you It is so different at home I came from your estate in Ireland I am from Clonmel myself Here in America you and I are sitting at the same table At home I couldn't get near enough to your father to shook him —Cleveland Leader

Men's clothing at fairest prices

A MAN who knows what good clothing should be, wants something more than just to be decently protected from the weather. He wants STYLE, that hard-to-seize, intangible something that makes one tailor's work the inspiration of the art sense; and another's---just clothes. The quickest and surest way to estimate the value of Strelitzs clothing is to judge the clothing by the handiwork of the finest tailor.

Worth $12 to $14 at $9.75

THE $9 75 LINE OF MEN'S SUITS is a very strong and a particularly good line, when one considers the low price Values easily range from $12 to $14, in fact, you'll pay that much in other stores for no better quality The suits cover a broad range of fabrics The coats are cut in the nobby three-button single and double breasted styles If you want a suit that will give you honest service and look well, why, then, select it from our $9 75 line

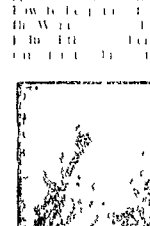
Dissects the Woman Who Fails by Reason of Undiscovered and Unsought for Causes The Selection of Vocations For Which One Is Entirely Unsuited

It's funny I'm'll how people waste time trying to be what they never were intended to be The longer I live (which by the way is the verbose expression of mine infelicitous impressions with my advanced years) the more I come to the conclusion that most people's brains are in cold storage—very cold storage at that A woman sets out to undertake something and she puts on with all her might and main then after a bit all that bent energy happens to be given over to trying to be something else that pattern will without having found out in the other fellow's mind that she was not cut out for it



But to play at it all the time

Such cases are common enough with all who come under the observation of the thoughtful But there is no reason why there is always this extreme condition and nine times out of ten it is not found that the person who has made the mistake is entirely to blame Had she been given the right bent in the first place she would have come out without the humiliation of failure

Here I was hoping that April with a good deal of talent really spent two years in dramatic company and after which he really thought he was about to become the play actor of the day Why shouldn't I get after a million-headed these two years when Mr Sothern has been with the company only two months gets a little rich in the way

The Milk in the Cocoanut

Why indeed It's very easy telling The star of the company is a charming woman gracious kindly to a plain genius and without the slightest pretension to personal beauty for her talent is undisputable—but—let her come down to the level of a mediocre woman and she has no more right to the name of actress than I have to the title of Duse

Now I will not be drawn into the controversy which will follow this statement but I am willing to make a bet that I can find a dozen women in the profession who have the right to the name of actress where I can find one who has not

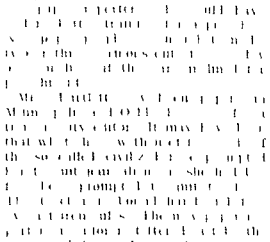
Then there is the matter of looks Of course beauty is not necessary to success but it helps a lot Then there is the matter of magnetism which is the intangible something that makes the audience feel that the actress is living the part she is playing and not merely acting it Then there is the matter of voice and enunciation Then there is the matter of grace and carriage Then there is the matter of temperament and magnetism Then there is the matter of magnetism and magnetism Then there is the matter of magnetism and magnetism

Now I'm not going to say that I have all these qualifications for success but I do say that I have enough of them to make me a success if I only had the chance

Oh yes I know many of you will say that I've had my chance and failed to make good But I'm not talking of the past I'm talking of the future What I'm going to do when I get my chance

In the Wrong Pew

Another actress you find lots of them in the profession women full than of genius who are in the theatrical business simply because they have to be Such women are to be found in every walk of life but they are more conspicuous on the stage than anywhere else



It's so still to

Now I'm not going to say that I'm going to be a success in the theatrical business simply because I have to be I have a talent for acting and I'm going to be a success because I have the talent and the ambition and the determination to be a success

Yes my friends I'm going to be a success in the theatrical business and I'm going to be a success because I have the talent and the ambition and the determination to be a success

Now I'm not going to say that I'm going to be a success in the theatrical business because I have the talent and the ambition and the determination to be a success

Now I'm not going to say that I'm going to be a success in the theatrical business because I have the talent and the ambition and the determination to be a success

Now I'm not going to say that I'm going to be a success in the theatrical business because I have the talent and the ambition and the determination to be a success

NO HYPNOTISM IN THE MATTER

Theory Is Repudiated by Mr. Newton.

CHADWICK LOAN IS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION

Mrs Chadwick Makes Large Loans Before and Pays Them.

HE EXPECTS TO RECEIVE PAYMENT IN THIS CASE

Securities of Mrs Chadwick Are Tied Up by Injunction--Demand Is Made That They Be Produced in Court Oberlin National Bank Owes Its Failure to Large Loans Made to Her Carnegie Not Interested in Case.

[BULLETIN]

OBERLIN O NOV 29—DIRECTOR J F WHITNEY OF THE CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK SAID THIS AFTERNOON THAT THE AMOUNT OF MONEY LOANED TO MRS CHADWICK BY PRESIDENT BECKWITH INCLUSIVE OF HIS PERSONAL LOAN WAS $240 000 WHICH IS FOUR TIMES THE CAPITAL STOCK OF THE BANK THESE FIGURES WERE GIVEN WHITNEY BY BECKWITH SUNDAY IN ADDITION TO THIS MRS CHADWICK OBTAINED $102 000 FROM BECKWITH AND SPEAR PERSONALLY MAKING THE TOTAL AMOUNT LOANED IN OBERLIN $342 000

Cleveland Nov 29— Herbert B Newton the Brookline business man who is suing Mrs Cassie Chadwick of Cleveland for $190 800 which he claims he loaned on notes expects Mrs Chadwick to keep her promise to settle tomorrow says a special despatch to the Plain Dealer from Boston last night

The dispatch further says Percy W Carver counsel for Mr Newton went to Cleveland today to be present at a hearing on a motion made by Newtons attorneys for the appointment of a receiver for the $1 000 000 in securities which Mrs Chadwick asserts are on deposit with the Wade Park Banking Co of Cleveland

The hearing upon the application comes tomorrow by assignment at the request of counsel for Mrs Chadwick the attorney having assured Mr Carver that Mrs Chadwick had the money and would pay tomorrow

If payment is not made tomorrow Mr Newtons counsel will press the application for a receiver

Mr Newton has declined to state the reasons for his loaning Mrs Chadwick so much money on notes without security in his possession Edwin J Mcknight counsel for Mr Newton said today

Mr Newtons loan to Mrs Chadwick was a plain business transaction She made a proposition to him for a loan representing a scheme that promised substantial returns Mr Newton being on the lookout for good investments made investigations which satisfied him of the responsibility of Mrs Chadwick and of the safety of the investment

There was no hypnotism It was a plain business transaction which might have been accepted by anyone

Mr Mcknight was asked if he had received any recent notice that Mrs Chadwick was prepared to settle He said he had not

But Mrs Chadwick has been pressed before to settle large obligations She paid them said he She has demonstrated that she has substantial means As her counsel has assured us that she is able to pay we have a right to assume that he speaks from knowledge of her financial condition

As the Boston dispatch says the final difficulties of Mrs Cassie Chadwick will be given their first public airing in common pleas court this morning

The hearing will be on the $190 800 suit which Banker Newton brought and Mrs Chadwick a few days ago hearing will come up on a motion for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the securities which figured in all Mrs Chadwicks financial transactions According to Newtons petition Mrs Chadwick represented to him that she held $5 000 000 worth of gilt edged bonds and stocks mostly United States Steel and Caledonian railway securities of Scotland

All the stocks and bonds Mrs Chadwick is said to have declared were in the possession of J F Reynolds secretary and treasurer of the Wade Park Banking Co Reynolds according to Newtons construction of Mrs Chadwicks representations held them in trust for her as her agent who was deputized to collect their interest and turn it over to her The interest amounted to $187 000 every six months Newton declares that Mrs Chadwick told him

Newton sets up in his petition that Mrs Chadwick pledged to him these securities whose interest bearing capacity Newton now alleges to have been a myth as a guaranty of her obligations to him Newton also says that he has demanded repeatedly of the Wade Park banking of J F Reynolds that he be shown these securities of his or else be furnished with a detailed list of them but he has always been refused he says Consequently when he brought suit to recover on Mrs Chadwicks notes for which the stocks and bonds were his security he says he had the court enjoin both Mrs Chadwick and Reynolds from disposing of them or encumbering them in any way

Newton now wants his security to be in the hands of the court altogether pending the termination of his litigation over it He is not satisfied with the injunction which was only a temporary one The hearing and determination of his motion for a receiver for these most interesting gilt edged bonds will be the crux of the Chadwick matter

The Oberlin End

Oberlin O Nov 29—Following close upon the closing of the doors of the Citizens National bank Monday come the startling admission of President C J Beckwith that he personally has assisted in loaning Mrs Cassie L Chadwick of Cleveland an amount approximating $102 000 For the first time today Beckwith stated the amount to which he personally is involved in the dealings which resulted in the suspension of business on the part of the bank In addition to the personal dealings of President Beckwith with Mrs Chadwick it is admitted that the bank itself is involved to a large extent but at present the officers and directors steadfastly refuse to state in what amount It is admitted that the bank is involved to such an extent that only relief from outside sources can save the institution In the words of Vice President M M Squire It is only a hope that we will secure assistance from New York

CROSSING GATES AT CALEDONIA

HOW THE MUCH-NEEDED PROTECTION IS SECURED

Bits of History That Date Back Several Years--A Long Fight With Victorious Climax for the Village--Perseverance Rewarded

The railroad crossing gates at Water Main and High streets Caledonia are now in operation and the citizens of that place are congratulating Mayor J V Harrison and the members of the city council for their tireless energy in securing the much needed protection

Twenty five years ago when Mr Harrison was then mayor of the village an effort was made to secure crossing gates but no amount of persuasion caused the railroad officials to install the gates Since then Mayor Harrison has always been actively at work in his efforts to secure the gates a it was realized that owing to the double tracks and the large number of trains running through without stopping day and night the lives of many people were constantly in danger

At one time the town council passed an ordinance prohibiting all trains from running more than eight miles an hour through the village railway officials notified the members of the council that they could not possibly run their fast trains through the place at such a low rate of speed but council was obdurate However the council was informed that no trains would stop at Caledonia until the ordinance was repealed and for some time all trains ran through the town at the rate of eight miles an hour none of them stopped The ordinance was finally repealed and then trains again stopped at the village station

It was only recently however that the officials of the Big Four and Erie seriously considered the feasibility of installing gates at crossing Superintendent Ingalls of the Big Four visited the town and made a personal investigation to other with Superintendent Allen of the Erie When they saw the conditions it was not long afterward that the Caledonia authorities were notified that the gates would be installed

Agitation for Exclusion of Japanese Laborers.

Agitation for the restriction of Japanese immigration to the United States goes on steadily Practically all the trade unions are now enlisted in the movement though the agitation has been pushed most actively in the West than in the East in fact we all remember not afraid of Asiatic competition

Several unsuccessful attempts have been made to induce congress to pass laws prohibiting the admission of Japanese laborers and now the American federation of labor at its convention in San Francisco has adopted unanimously a resolution calling for the exclusion of Japanese laborers not merely from the continent of the United States but also from our insular possessions Doubtless the matter will be brought forward as soon as congress meets in December

The labor leaders contend that the Japanese work long hours at low wages and put down the price of labor to the detriment of workingmen unable or unwilling to live as cheaply

The Japanese in this part of the union is everybody who has employed them has reason to know do not want for low wages The great mass of them here are domestic servants and usually they get wages closely approximated those paid to menservants of other nationalities more especially when they are all prudent in our language Even fresh arrivals from Japan demand good wages They are far from pernicious being somewhat remarkable for careful attention to their dress and their scale of living generally is far from low On the ships of the navy the servants are usually Japanese and they are well paid They are intelligent men and know on which side their bread is buttered

It is true that at the West in the Rocky Mountain mining camps they are some Japanese who work for Chinese wages small wages In Hawaii and the Philippines also their wages may be lower than the union labor standard in this country but they are not now low by the standard for Asiatic labor prevailing there

Moreover it is practical for the United States to deal with the Japanese as it is dealing with Chinamen Japan has entered the ranks of civilization as a first class power Japan has demonstrated its powess on sea and on land and must be treated with respect China asleep and non resistant might be forced to accept a treaty humiliating to its rulers and disadvantageous to its people but Japan is strong alert and fully able to assert its rights It may be assumed that Japan would angrily resent and stoutly resist such a discrimination as the labor unions propose is an insult to a great and friendly power distinguished for its enlightenment Japan may refuse peremptorily This is true in particular of the demand for the exclusion of the Mikados people from the Philippine islands and it is an important factor in the case

If Japan should be triumphant in her war with Russia she would find an outlet for her surplus population in the new possessions he would obtain If Japan was defeated her people might be reduced to such straits that a great wave of emigration to the Philippines Hawaii and this country would result In the one case a Japanese invasion of this country would not be imminent and the agitation for an Japanese legislation would be likely to cease In the other the situation would become acute and a new and difficult political diplomatic situation would arise New York Sun

LIFEBOAT TAKEN FOR WHALE

Norwegian Whaler Came Near Firing a Bomb at the Crew

The crew of a capsized lifeboat found adrift by the ship arrived at St Johns N F after a voyage of 100 days across the Atlantic had a successful trip says the New York Herald Four days after leaving Ambrose Norwegian whaler which supposed she was a right whale and was about to fire an explosive bomb harpoon at her when her crew pulled and prevented what might have been a disaster

The lifeboat was provisioned for forty days weather which tested her severely qualities and it seemed impossible for her to survive so great was the blow Many odd days passed would have summoned Christopher Columbus to the Canadian While crossing south of Greenland she had a very rough time sometimes for hours on end Upon this danger the night the crew she met in the ice which lasted two days and a night All the famous waves but only three appeared to be of enormous size

A few weeks ago she lost a member Thomas Burton which broke her mast She carried one large mast in the middle of her rounded hull The crew was forced to cut the sail and spar away leaving the latter would ram a hole through her side After that she drifted with a small sail to wind land In the condition in which helpless she was for 11 days on her own to an Atlantic liner plying between Liverpool and Montreal all the while still

The Lindel was also chosen ashore in a severe weather off St Johns captain Brade did not know his whereabouts having been three weeks without getting an observation He now pulls ofs and the land and the tide was against the coast and rocks when by a fortunate turn, best sighted her and towed her safely to port

OPTICAL DELUSIONS

Why the Sun, Moon and Stars Appear Large at the Horizon

When we observe objects at a distance we are not conscious of the small illness of the angle under which we see them and we think them much higher than they really are This fact discerns the disillusions in photography a country the boundaries of which never hills appears almost flat on the sensitive plate the lens giving us the real angular sizes of the distant objects without taking into account the psychic association of our eye If however we look at distant objects under unusual conditions our judgment is at fault the smallness of the angle of observation becomes sensible and the objects appear much smaller This is what occurs for example when a country is examined with the head bent to one side or allowed to hang between the legs the colors become much clearer But the country appears also more distant

We may apply these facts to the sun and moon When we see these bodies at the horizon we place them instinctively at a great distance and we judge of their size as we do of objects placed at this distance that is very great, that size When however these bodies are raised above the horizon we see them under unaccustomed conditions without undertaking comparative tests and at an undefined distance In consequence of this fact the exaggeration of our calculation disappears and the sun and moon appear smaller to us

The angle under which we see the sun and the moon is equal to about one half of a degree Calculation shows that this is the angle under which we see a cower forty four meters in height at a distance of a little over three miles Thus by comparison with known terrestrial objects the stars at the horizon appear very large to us The error depends in part also on the state of the atmosphere When the atmosphere is not clear and foggy the error is greatest in this case the moon taking on a red tint where on when this body has all of its brightness it differs too much from ordinary objects for the instinctive comparison to be made the moon in this case appearing smaller The same reasoning applies to the sun In fogs we affect the stars also appear nearer a fact which is due to their reflecting the red light, a greater effort of accommodation to unite on the retina the light is from these radiations

It is not necessary that there be terrestrial objects to which we can directly compare the apparent diameter of this sun and moon the error may occur at the horizon of the sea It is to be noted that the constellations have the same apparent increase in size in approaching the horizon and that of ten the two lower parts of the rainbow seem enlarged In short we have to do with a very general phenomenon applying as well to terrestrial as to celestial object In every case the error consisting in an exaggerated estimation of the objects on the horizon —Exchange

PAYING AN ELECTION BET

Society Girl of Denver Scrubbed Steps of Colorado State Capitol

At noon the other day in Denver a big automobile filled with a rollicking bevy of well dressed women slushed up to the state capitol says a special dispatch to Denver All were centered on the prettiest girl Miss Sadie Kennedy who sat with serious mien in the tonneau

She was the last to get out When she did her tantalizing friends surrounded her and the jolly chefs hurried up the steps and through the hall to the marble stairways in the center of the building

The young woman carried a bucket in one hand and in the other a scrubbing brush and a huge piece of soap With a swish of silk she hurried up the steps threw herself down on her knees and began to apply soap and water to the steps

Every stroke of the brush brought peals of laughter from her friends When the young society scrubwoman got halfway down the state Governor Peabody emerged from his private office and stepped to watch her She nodded to him and said splitefully

This is all your fault governor I am paying my bet that you could be elected

New Army War College and Its Real Purpose

THE new Army War college which was opened for the reception of pupils on Nov 1 is the realization of an idea long cherished by military men Liberally constructed this new training system is a postgraduate course for commissioned officers of the regular army up to and including the rank of colonel Pending the construction of the noble buildings designed as a home for this latest novelty among educational institutions which are gradually assuming shape on the grounds of the arsenal barracks at Washington the college will be housed in the building used by the president during the repairs made at the White House

The War college represents somewhat a departure in military practice that even military men have a rather hazy notion of its character and purpose Strictly speaking of course it is not a college at all especially in the academic sense It is designed to afford certain class of military men an opportunity to study war problems The object is not so much to impart instruction as it is to apply the knowledge already gained at West Point and other military schools to practical use Hypothetical campaigns will be fought and much attention will be given to the game of war which affords an excellent opportunity to work out strategic and tactical points

It will be the most important duty of the War college to prepare plans for the national defense In this age of civilization when the fighting branch of the government must be prepared at all times for any possible contingency in the case of hostilities breaking out with any country the chief of staff should be able to produce at once from its proper receptacle a plan of campaign complete in its every detail The whole scheme must be in readiness to move at the touch of an electric button There will be informal lectures on important situations that may be suggested and discussions of questions relating to military reconnoitering the building and destruction of bridges transportation by land and by water supply trains etc If the investment of a fort is contemplated some actual stronghold will be chosen and a study of its defenses will be made with reference to overcoming them

The fortunate officers who will be detailed to study at the War college will be carefully selected Only those who have the matter in charge feel that the army at present is not progressing, for lack of the facilities for such instruction Tools for officers must be put to the special service which obtains but few men for civilian and military life realize what a quantity of tools for engineering work of troops companies and regiments are of wood and porcelain and they are pushed over the map when at last something strikes several days to play a single game and it is conducted in absolute silence with an occasional head for explanation or suggestion At the War college the campaign of the civil war will be fought over again in detail Let example the conditions of the battle of Shiloh will be given and from all the facts will be deduced the tactics which should have been employed

Each officer will be required to make a study of the problem and present his solution in writing Two days each week for the term of nine months will be devoted to this work

The War college is also to be made the repository for the vast quantities of military data now held by the attaches of United States embassies and legations The sixty nine acres comprising the original Washington barracks became a military post as long ago as 1803 It was a depot for military supplies and for three years was buried by the British in 1814 In the grounds also was the old United States penitentiary under the floors of which were buried the bodies of John Wilkes Booth and Mrs Surratt with the others who were hanged for the Lincoln assassination murders When the prison was torn down the bodies were removed to other localities

The necessity for ample and thorough instruction of army officers becomes evident when the fact is recalled that among 1118 lieutenants commissioned since the Spanish American war only 6 have been educated at West Point 616 having been appointed from the volunteer service 414 promoted from the ranks and 12 having been drawn from civil life

A WORTHY CHARITY

The London hospital dispenses 7 500 000 pills and about three tons of cough lozenges per annum In dressing for the patients during the twelve months 92 miles of lint 476 miles of bandages 9 miles of plaster and 6 tons of cotton wool are required

[illegible] buildings will be erected [illegible] the [illegible] which is the project for which work is [illegible] will be [illegible] fund between the [illegible] eastern branch near the capital About forty of the buildings are now under construction and the remainder will be begun within [illegible] The largest of the structures which will contain the class rooms will be 300 feet in length and 100 feet in width and will consist of two series of [illegible] In addition to the [illegible] rooms proper there are to be erected quarters for the officers [illegible] stables barracks and quarters for other buildings Congress has appropriated $1 250 000 for the improvement of the grounds and the erection of buildings and it is believed that a sum considerably in excess of that amount will be needed to carry out the original plan

The new college is also to be made the depository for the vast quantities of military data held by the attaches of United States embassies and legations The sixty nine acres comprising the original Washington barracks became a military post as long ago as 1803 It was a depot for military supplies and for three years was buried by the British in 1814 In the grounds also was the old United States penitentiary under the floors of which were buried the bodies of John Wilkes Booth and Mrs Surratt with the others who were hanged for the Lincoln assassination murders When the prison was torn down the bodies were removed to other localities

The necessity for ample and thorough instruction of army officers becomes evident when the fact is recalled that among 1118 lieutenants commissioned since the Spanish American war only 6 have been educated at West Point 616 having been appointed from the volunteer service 414 promoted from the ranks and 12 having been drawn from civil life

What the War Is Costing Russia and Japan

WHAT is the present war costing, Russia and Japan? This is a question which is interesting not only to those who must count the cost but to everybody for it is time enough that the financial ability or disability of one nation is a matter of consequence to the people of all other nations

In the case of Japan considerations of finance have from the first been as closely as close attention as was the mobilization of the army or any of the other essential preliminaries of the campaign In military activity from without gold is in truth full power less of its own weight It requires the potent stimulation of the precious metal to give it life and the power to act It is beginning to be understood how well Japan has prepared herself to conduct a protracted struggle not only by an intelligent disposition of her army and navy but also by the most clever manipulation of financial resources ever known to the treasury experts of any country

The first war of Japan with China cost the former nation $150 000 000 In view of the increased importance of the present struggle that total is to be doubled $60 000 000 six months hence $40 000 000 a month The war certainly will be carried on by the current revenue of the empire as was the Chinese war without additional taxation or recourse to the printing press Japan's war debt will have been doubled by the end of the year but the annual interest charge will not be increased in proportion for the loans will be floated at 4 per cent and the total will not exceed $300 000 000 Japan's population is said to be 45 000 000 so that the war debt will be but $6 per capita Even this will be reduced by the sale of the Japanese navy after the war is over

Every soldier employed by Russia in Manchuria leaves just that much more debt Whether or not Japan can depend upon the good will of the native population of Manchuria to connect its base with the interior is a question which only the future can answer but it is certain that Japan has the power to establish any military base it may choose in Manchuria and to maintain it at a cost not exceeding that of the Russian base at Port Arthur

Russia must lose for the reason that her open account will be vastly larger than that of Japan Even though the Russian railway is owned and controlled by the government the cost of maintaining the line will be enormous Every soldier employed by Russia in Manchuria leaves just that much more debt Whether or not Japan can depend upon the good will of the native population of Manchuria to connect its base with the interior is a question which only the future can answer but it is certain that Japan has the power to establish any military base it may choose in Manchuria and to maintain it at a cost not exceeding that of the Russian base at Port Arthur

Russia must lose for the reason that her open account will be vastly larger than that of Japan Even though the Russian railway is owned and controlled by the government the cost of maintaining the line will be enormous

Although Russia's finance is utterly bankrupt for the present the government will undoubtedly be able to raise the money it needs for the war Russia has unlimited credit abroad and the government will be able to borrow all the money it needs at a low rate of interest Besides the Russian government has a large gold reserve in the treasury at St Petersburg which it can draw upon at will

As the war advances Tokio will be compelled to increase its expenditures to meet the demands of the army and navy and there is no reserve upon which the government can draw to meet the increased expenditures Another enormous saving has been brought about in the reduction of transportation One of the most efficient arms of transport ever devised by the ingenuity of man is the perfectly equipped Japanese army corps Every Japanese soldier is a reservist and when he is called to the colors he is ready to take the field at once Every man knows his place in the ranks and every officer knows his men Every soldier knows his duty and every officer knows his men Every soldier knows his duty and every officer knows his men

Unlike Japan which is not lack of national loyalty and is employed by unanimous impulse Russia is compelled to maintain enormous armies which must always be the principal source of the army sent to Asia only [illegible] summer the czar ordered the creation of [illegible] reserve divisions 160 000 men to supply the places of the troops sent to the east It is not necessary to multiply instances of Russia's great difficulties to her resources and the matter of economical war administration is conservative to compare the present war with those of the past

The Painters' Magazine says:—"There is no substitute for pure linseed oil. YOU CAN'T MAKE DURABLE PAINT WITHOUT IT. Paint makers are greatly tempted to increase profits by DOPING linseed oil with petroleum, rosin, fish or cotton oil. SUCH PAINT WON'T LAST."

You KNOW you get pure oil when you use Kinloch Paint because you buy the oil separately of any reputable local dealer

Then mix it gallon for gallon with Kinloch —no more no less and nothing else and you have an absolutely pure Linseed Oil Paint at an honest price for both Oil and Paint or at LEAST 75 PER CENT LESS than any other high grade paint

Kinloch is not a patent paint It is just the good old time linseed oil paint of the finest material in all standard colors ground together READY FOR YOU TO THIN DOWN with the pure raw oil

The Burning Question.

Manifestly it is revision of the tariff The people will not be content with a stand pat policy They demand justly that something be done in the direction of correcting the inequalities of the present tariff

It is injurious and an abomination It is in the protection and favoritism for certain classes at the expense of the many who are composed of all classes

There are three ways in which tariff revision can be approached One is by the appointment of a tariff commission Then there is the method of leaving the matter entirely to the committees of the two houses of congress The first method would be to have a committee composed of a reasonable number of qualified members of both houses appointed by their presiding officers to consider the matter and report at the proper time There will be no great advantage in a special session as the subject would have to be referred to a committee after the session had been called and that committee could not prepare a report hurriedly

The second committee cannot be appointed in advance of the organization of the two houses New members could not be included from consideration by the speaker on the committee in making appointments on such a committee but new members who have not been formally sworn in cannot be appointed prior to the meeting of the two houses

A still another plan which commends itself to the unanimous sentiment of the high tariff experts is that which was outlined as the stand pat policy by attorneys of the present interest in connection with last this plan with certain modifications and give it the unqualified support But the tariff ought not to be touched It is a reform of its concentrates incongruities and abominations It requires much to go The Republican party must modify or revise its own majority and influence in the country materially modified at the next election The people of this great free country have no intention of submitting indefinitely to the oppression of the money power the manufacturing power or any other power present in society for private interests and privilege —Chicago Tribune

A Southern Gentleman.

It was but the president has offered to Senator Cockrell of Missouri a position either the chairmanship of the interstate commerce commission or a navy portfolio is welcome evidence of the truthful American estimate of personal attributes

To thoughtful Republicans the one regrettable incident in connection with the president's recent and somewhat unexpected victory in Missouri was that it involved the retirement of the Hon Francis Marion Cockrell from the senate and all such Republicans will regret that the president has found a way to retain him in the nation's service

Francis Marion Cockrell entered the Senate March 4 1905 under what to another would have seemed a heavy handicap He was an unknown quantity in Missouri politics known there only as a country lawyer who had never held public office He was a product of the political revolution that overthrew the Republican party in Missouri and his senatorial campaign had come with eccentric from the viewpoint of the political manager of the times He was a Democrat at a time when the party's follies and worse had served to with odium and not in the least ashamed of the fact He had been a confederate officer and never dreamed of apologizing for it although he accepted absolutely the judgment of arms and the fact of an undivided republic Under the circumstances the career of the Ten junior senator from Missouri might have been expected to be the reverse of noteworthy

The sturdy character of the man and his unassuming integrity have made his career both long and honorable and broadly useful to the whole country No senator commands greater personal and professional respect from his colleagues Of late years he has devoted himself particularly to questions of military organization on which he is regarded in the senate as an authority It is not too much to say that the army reforms projected by Secretary Root would not have been possible or completely carried into law but for the cordial assistance given by Senator Cockrell

In all his public career Senator Cockrell has regarded the public service itself and not the personal advantages to be derived from it as the end and aim of his existence Hence at the age of seventy years and despite all the opportunities for entirely legitimate money making that he must have had he is honorably poor

Francis Marion Cockrell is a southern gentleman in the best sense of that much abused phrase Hence it is pleasing to note that he is not to be rejected to obscurity in his old age and that for his long service and rock rooted integrity won't can still be found in the service of the republic

APROPOS OF WEDDINGS.

You know the things you call the limit Tom said Polly the other night when that young man dropped in informally to dinner Well this is it she picked up a limp inky news paper and waved it before him Dad dy's third cousin Izzy Duncan has been elected mayor of Dunkville Mo and Cousin Izzy wanted us all to know so he sent daddy this paper

Well that's all right murmured Tom

Oh that's not it at all said Polly It's a wedding Do listen Flora May Flower of Dunkville is getting married to Charles N Stubbs and this is what it says

Polly read

The bridal party entered the reception parlor with tom little ribbon girls Kathryn and Helene and Dorothy Dey lin and Miriam Stubbs all dressed in Alphants breath white chiffon silk Kathryn and Helene were equal in height and Dorothy and Miriam were of equal size A blonde and brunette stood on either side of the ribbon usher each of the ribbons being about two and one half yards in length

Elephants breath white chiffon silk repeated the Dahl line and I say Polly let's go out to the zoo some frosty morning and compare elephants breath and monkey breath so as to be upon them I tell you said Tom Wedding attendants are the very sort to be dead numbers—

Oh do be still said Polly But just think of ribbon two and one half yard long Well

At the close of the ceremony the minister pronounced the blessing on the happy couple the bridegroom tenderly and tactfully assisting the bride to partake of postum afterward kneeling before the altar on the white rug on which they stood while Dan made husband and wife the minister then assisting them to their extension comfortable the maid of honor in the act having very deftly drawn aside that portion of the bride's veil which covered her face

And very well that way continued Tom apparently not to have noticed much more than the stuff that was to say That touch about the white rug is full of truth and has drawn while the presence of him Lincoln tenderly and gratefully to Lincoln postum I commend to bring out to my eyes living to such a —

Here's one more criticism interrupted Polly

The bridal room was a bower of bridal presents emblematic in part and what On the sideboard was a dandy dinner set marshalled by cases which came all the way from the Far South Dunkville very best friend a cut glass

Mother Hubbard was very cool put him Later like with mixed tears and smiles about as my pet Mr the chandelier a chandelier was crowned with white Dahlias other flowers having no title but the bride and with paul white pearls tied with gauzy ribbon which pended from the one

Which what demanded Tom What are we talking of

The bridal party entered the dining room and in a moment the bride and groom were seated at the table Ushered by two ribbon girls Kathryn and Helene Dorothy and Miriam served the bride and groom with the first course

Now that I may insist Polly that the bridegroom He was to him event until filled with snowy linen and white and had name in the left side of his coat It is now himself and

How interpolated Tom

Possesses a pleasant disposition the happy couple being well mated in this respect as well as in others and stands high socially at his home being a social leader He has the reputation of being a thoroughly reliable gentleman He takes his bride to a furnished home (with all the modern improvements) and on their arrival they will be tendered a reception

Great! remarked Tom This is a document of surpassing psychological interest Polly

Why Tommy?

In the fact that it raises the question as to what dear friend cut those mourners all the way from the South Now if I'd been Stubbs I'd have sent that gift of Flora Mays out in a paper window Which means Polly that I don't want that Bentham fellow sending you any magnolias from his Montana ranch

Magnolias don't grow in Montana remarked Polly with a primness of tone

Well they'd better not retorted Tom darkly—Chicago News

LITTLE STORIES TOLD ABOUT PUBLIC PEOPLE

Long as Sherlock Holmes

Ex Governor Long of Massachusetts is a political Sherlock Holmes Not long ago he was in a county fair when a farmer approached him Governor Long said out his hand and said

I'm glad to see you again sir glad to see you How's your wife? And the boy?

All was right and accurate and the farmer beamed with pleasure Good morning Long continued

And say! How about the white horse Still have him I suppose?

The farmer beamed more than ever you'd remember that three years ago that my mare? Yes I still got the old white horse

When the farmer had passed out of hearing a friend exclaimed

Say governor that wife and boy question was all right and safe But how in the world did you know he had a white horse?

Well said Governor Long I'll tell you I saw some white hairs on his coat and I took chances That's all

NEW PATROL WAGON TO OCCUPY OLD CITY PRISON

Such Is Plan Proposed by Safety and Service Boards

The probabilities are that the old city prison will be used for the patrol wagon and another building will be built beginning at the east door to look up

Monday afternoon members of the boards of public safety and service met at the city building and decide on the above plan of the matter

By placing the patrol wagon where the city prison now is it is figured that the horse can be stabled in the room next to the cells in the fire department and that by building another city prison a sanitary sewer can easily be constructed beneath it

Some definite action in regard to the matter will probably be taken at the regular meeting of the service board Wednesday evening

Caledonia Nov 3—[Special]—For a week residents of this place have been preparing to give a warm reception to burglars who it was reported were about to rob the Caledonia Deposit bank The authorities had received information that an attempt would be made to loot the vault and in consequence many were made out to find some one that the attempt was made

Between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning jewelry too owned by G W Cruze was stolen into and $5 worth of hair rings pins and watch chains were taken The Racket store was also entered and the burglars supplied themselves with clothing At the home of Henry Hammon on South Main street burglars entered the cellar and stole robbies

The burglars escaped without detection

The authorities are of the opinion that the work was done by three or four suspicious characters who arrived in town several days ago and who it was reported were to make an attempt to rob the bank The bank is so closely guarded however that they gave up the attempt and robbed the jewelry and clothing stores instead

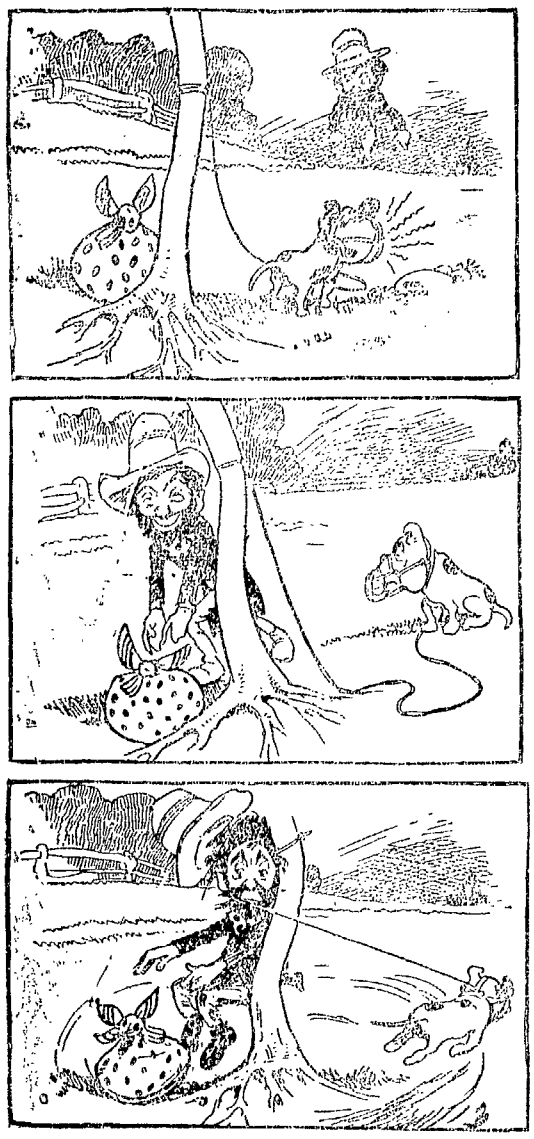
THE HUMOR OF IT

HUNGRY HAROLD'S UNDOING.



DEEP SEATED SARCASM.

Mother of Unprepossessing Youngster: "Yes, we had a lot of trouble with him when he was a baby."
Visitor: "And now, I'm sure, the little man has turned out to be a blessing in disguise!"

A WARM PROPOSITION.

"Won't I have a lock of your dear auburn hair to wear above my heart?"
"No, it might give you heartburn."

SOURCE OF WORRY.

When the egotist retires at night
Feels one thought gives him pain—
"How can this old world get along
Till I am wide awake again?"

WELL EARNED TOO.

The Poet—A poet gains his reputation from his poems.
The Cynic—Then what an awfully bad reputation you must have!

IN A RESTURANT.

"Waiter, how long has this fish been here?"
"I don't know, sir. I only came day before yesterday."

Future Assured.

"Yes, we found the baby playing with a volume of verse."
"Indeed? He will probably turn out to be a poet."
"But he tore the verses up and tossed them out of the window."
"Oh!, eh? Well, that shows he's going to be an editor."

He Was an Optimist.

Tom—Congratulate me, old man. Miss Gossip has made me happy for life.
Harry—Indeed! When is the wedding to take place?
Tom—Never. She refused me.

Good Influence.

Jerry—How do good clothes make a man a gentleman?
Joe—They make him feel as if he was expected to act like one.

An Unnecessary Incumbrance.

Grace—I have made up my mind to enter society.
Gladys—What has your mind got to do with it?

Just a Beginner.

She—Has she many friends in society?
He—Oh, yes; she hasn't been in love, you know.

THE JOYS OF WEDDED BLISS.

"Such a man as you are," snapped Mrs. Newlywed, "doesn't deserve to have a wife!"
"That's right, my darling," calmly replied Mr. Newlywed. "I've often wondered what I ever did to deserve such an affliction."

Somewhat Different.

"Why, I wasn't aware that Jenkins ever played cards," said the astonished friend.
"He doesn't," replied the victim, with a sigh long drawn out. "He works them."

Possible Explanation.

Ethel—I wonder why handsome women usually marry homely men?
Jack—It must be due to the fact that the lonely men ask them.

Her Point of View.

"Do you think it does any good to scold your husband every time he fails to please you, Mrs. Growl?"
"I know it do's. It makes me feel better every time."

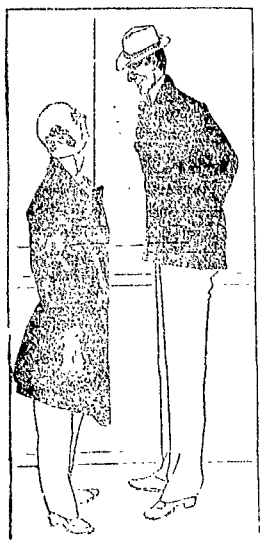
Identified.

"What is an outsider?"
"An outsider is a person who knows more about your family affairs than you know about them yourself."

Asked and Answered.

Professor—If a patient had drank sulphuric acid what would you give him?
Medical Student—I'd give him up.

THE REAL TROUBLE.



"Do you ever worry over the trouble in the world?"
"No, I have trouble enough of my own."

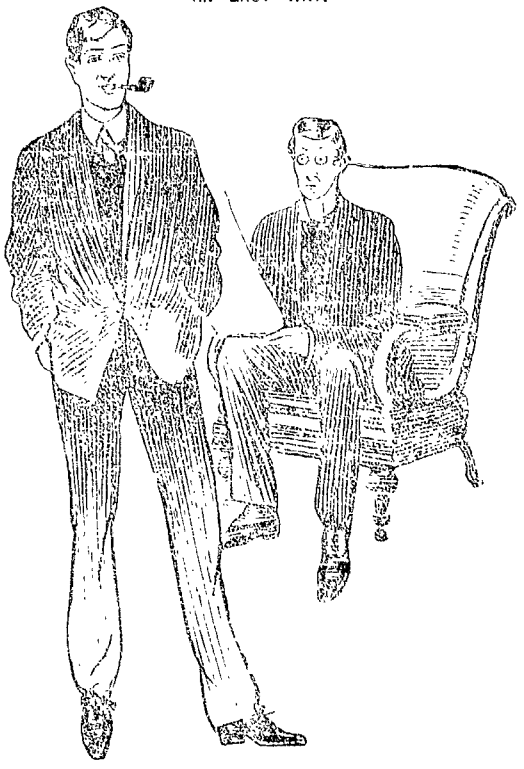
TOO WELL.

[illegible]

PRACTICALLY SUPERSTITIOUS.

[illegible]

AN EASY WAY.



Washington: "How do he get rich?"
Swellington: "Betting against sure things."

A MODEST REQUEST.

"I should like to [illegible]"
"You [illegible]"

ONE WAY TO KEEP THEM.

[illegible]

MEAN OF HIM.

The Young Wife: "I'll cast my bread upon the waters."
The Brutal Husband: "Have you no feeling for the poor fish?"

From His Standpoint.

He—Have you heard that Miss Moneybags is going to make a brilliant match?
She—That's news to me. Who is she going to marry?
He—Why, me, of course.

The Continuous Pose.

Mrs. Dobbs—How is your neighborhood?
Mrs. Dibbs—Oh, just like the other one. All the rich people talk poor, and all the poor people talk rich.—Puck.

Jolt For the "13" Superstition.

The organization of the Women's club by thirteen Springfield (Mass.) society women was regarded with misgiving by the superstitious. But the club, says the New York World, recently celebrated its twentieth anniversary, having outlived every other women's club in Springfield. Of the original thirteen members all but one were present.

It is astonishing how much time some people have to spare for the supervision of other people's business and how well they do it—in their minds.—Binghamton Press.

Principals at a Recent Waldo Golden Wedding.

Waldo Nov 6 [Special]—Mr and Mrs Jeremiah R Ellmaker celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day with about sixty of their relatives and friends at their home in Waldo Friday November 15 The affair was managed by Mr Ellmaker who had prepared a bountiful dinner appropriate for the occasion

Mr Ellmaker was born September 27 1827 in Perry county Pennsylvania He can trace his descent back many generations his great great grandfather having been taken in the Kings house of Germany His great grandparents came to America in 1720 and purchased land of William Penn settled in Perry county Pennsylvania The original farm is still in possession of the Ellmaker family having been willed from one generation to another

MR PERRY ELLMAKER

MRS PERRY ELLMAKER

Mr Ellmaker's parents came to Ohio in 1815 and for a time lived in a little log house that stood between the river and mill race near the ford just south of Waldo The family consisted of a sister seven years old and a brother Frederick two years younger than Mr Ellmaker both of whom are now dead The family soon moved to the farm now owned by Mr Enos Rhoads then to Waldo then into a house just opposite the residence of Valentines to the Knappenberger farm the Keen von farm the Levi Jones farm and to the farm now owned by William Olborn Here Mr Ellmaker who was then twenty three years old left the paternal home and for several years to need about working at anything that he could get to do and incidentally learning the wagonmakers trade He returned home in 1851 and for some time worked for a Mr Gilleland near Norton

November 18 1851 he was married to Sarah M the daughter of his employer who was born November 1 1827 The young couple lived for a time in Norton In 1856 Mr Ellmaker bought the farm now owned by F H Allmendinger In 1870 he sold this and bought what is now known as the Boyd farm Five years later they moved to the farm just east of town

HAVE BEEN FAVORING CERTAIN CONTRACTORS

Dan Evans Complains of the System Employed in Repairing Pikes

To the Citizens of Marion County

After a long series of wrongful acts by the commissioners of Marion county in letting work to favored contractors in this county we find there is no promise but to appeal to the citizenship of the county to do all its power to prevent a continuation of such wrongs

The repairing of the pikes of the county has been so poorly done that a number of them are practically worn out and yet thousands of dollars have been wasted upon their repair Contract for the construction of new pikes have been made and the pikes constructed and paid for without any attempt to come bid on the same and at a time when contractors and builders stood ready and anxious to bid for the work

The latest contract of the character of having work done without receiving bids for the same is the repairing of what is known as Caiden City pike Crushed stone is being hauled upon the pike without any sort of advertisement or notice without any opportunity even for labor and material men to bid on the same

The commissioners state that they have not let any contract for the repair that they know nothing about the price to be paid and the only claim which these contracts make to the repair made of their right to enjoy on the improvement of the road is that Mr Foley and Mr Harmon had promised them the work before the election Both Republican members deny any knowledge of the fact that the road work was to be done and one was hauled on the pike before the Republican members of the board of commissioners knew anything about it

This loose method of carrying on business by the commissioners have been going on for years until the tax rate has reached the highest point ever known in Marion county and now that the board of commissioners have Republicans in the majority a radical change is to be expected but cannot and will not be had if the old method of letting work and purchasing material is to be carried out

Very respectfully

Dan Evans superintendent and general manager of the John Evans Lime & Stone company
